- 5 - "Investing" outflow related to the payment of excess trade liabilities assumed on acquisition of another business (and factored into acquisition price).

Free Cash Flow

The financial strategy of the Group is to fund:

Maintenance capital expenditure out of cash flow from operations

Dividends to AMA shareholders out of free cash flow

Acquisitions of “greenfields” and “brownfields” out of the remaining free cash flow

To date the Group has managed this, primarily by using the free cash flow and the first tranche of the market investment incentive.

Update on ASG

Restructuring of ASG completed with the shift of six of the go-forward business units out of Fleet Alliance Pty Ltd and into separate entities as follows:

Distribution

One unit being integrated into the Automotive Electrical and 4x4 Accessories Division

Manufacturing

Three units into Vehicle Protection Equipment & Ute Accessories Division

Workshop

Two units into new fourth Workshop and Performance Products Division

The restructure and integration was successfully completed to facilitate improved controls, synergies, capacity and to strengthen their independent business identities

All four divisions have delivered positive results and the ACA Divisional support team have worked extremely hard to instil AMA Group's disciplines of strong business leadership principles, reporting mechanisms and improvement strategies into the new business units.

The Group is developing the teams' knowledge and abilities in each new business unit and are on track to achieve high performance and business excellence.

In restructuring the business and after assessing the position, the Group took the following actions; sold JDR Motorsports and closed Umhauers Geelong along with the removal of the board and closure of head office operations.
